WE print elsewhere a suggestion from in esteemed correspondent, that our of a candidate for Congress be held at Clarksburg the day before the holding of the State Convention. The proposition commends itself to us as a good one. These nominations and the choice of a State ticket could scarcely be made n one day, with due regard to that "dignity" which our respected friend of the Morgantown Post deems so essential a part of the proceeding. The trains from the east do not reach Clarksourg till about 2 P. M., so that the residue of the one day would not suffice. If the other districts conclude to make district nominations at Clarksburg, we suggest a like course. Can we not agree in this district to make judicial and Senatorial nominations at the same time? Friends throughout the district, let us hear from you.

—The British troops in Abyssinnia, under Napier, have achieved a great victory. They have taken the fortress Magdala, killed and wounded 2,000 and taken 14,000 prisoners. Theodore himself is among the killed. The captives are released and on their way home.

—The Virginia newspapers indicate a movement on the part of South Carolinians, and residents of other Southern States, to remove Northward, with the view of escaping negro supremacy. In Virginia they find the whites already in the ascendant, and plans are on foot which point to large accessions of population in that State from Southern sources.

-A terrible case of human combustion, which resulted in death, has just taken place in Cleveland, Ohio. The name of the man was Bremer. We learn that he drank on a wager six large drinks of whisky and a plat of stock ale at a sitting. With blazing face and starting eyes, helthen reeled toward a gas jet, in order to light his pipe, when the noxious gases issuing pipe, when the noxious gases issuing from his mouth were instantly abiaze, and the poor wretch was soon being consumed by an inward fire.

SENATE.

DESPATCHES to several Western papers say that the nomination of Gen. out to be another move of Mr. Johnson made on his own responsibility, and without even consulting his friends; and that Gen. Schofield's recent visit to Washington had nothing to do with the matter, but was wholly for purposes of the condition of affairs in Virginia. Gen. Grant has fully discussed the sitnation there with leading Republicans, and the action taken has been such as they approve. It believed by all these that the President's offer of the Secretaryship of War has been made to Schofiel dfor the purpose of making it appear that one at least of the military commanders indorses his action. It is fully expected that his success will be the same as in the case of Generals Sherman and George H. Thomas. The Senate will take no action in the matter, and if the move was made by the President to have any effect upon impeachment one way or the other, it has already failed. It has come to light that the President offered the place to General Schofield a number of months against Congress.

—A destructive fire occurred in Al-egheny Sunday, during which Sykes' annery was destroyed. Loss $50,000; nsurance $20,000. About twenty men

—The Tribune's special says that thirty-six counties of North Carolina that have been heard from give the Republicans 15,000 msjority. The majority in the First Congressional District, Mr. French's, is 6,000. The Constitution is undoubtedly ratified, and the whole State ticket is elected by at least 25,000 msjority. The Lagislature is largely Republican.

—An Atlanta, Ga., special to the New York Tribune says that semi-official statements from 34 counties give 4,500 majority for the Constitution and 3,000 majority for Bullock. Full official returns will not be received before next Friday: Judges who are thoroughly compatent to give an opinion now esticompetent to give an opinion now estimate that the Constitution has been carried by at least 7,000 majority, and that Bullock is chosen Governor by 5,000. It is probable that a majority of Democrats have been chosen to the Legislature, but it remains to be seen whether enough of them can take the oath to make a quorum.

CONGRESS.

WASHINGTON, April 27. The Court opened at noon and the pending question was stated to be the order of Senator Edmunds, that the official reporters be admitted to the secret session to take debate on the final question, to be reported with the proceadings.

A APRIL 28, 1868.*

Seathwest by Seath State of the Principle of the State of the Principle of t order of Senator Edamnds, that the official reporters be admitted to the secret session to take debate on the final question, to be reported with the proceedings.

Mr. Williams moved to amend by inserting the following at the end: But no Senator shall speak more than once nor to exceed fifteen minutes during such deliberations.

At the desire of Senator Johnson rule 23 was read.

Mr. Howard moved to amend the amendment by inserting after the words "fifteen minutes" the words "one question." The amendment was rejected by 19 to 30.

Mr. Bayard moved to amend Mr. Williams' amendment by allowing thirty instead of fifteen minutes. Rejected; 16 against 38.

On motion of Mr. Morton, seconded by Mr. Haward, further consideration of the subject was postponed until after the argument is concluded.

The additional rules offered by Mr. Sumner was, upon his motion, laid over until the close of the argument.

The Chief Justice then directed the argument to proceed.

At 12:30 o'clock Mr. Stevens mounted the clerk's desk and read his argument in a pretty firm voice, from printed slips. After about ten minutes he took a chair and read sitting. At five minutes before one his voice showed signs of weakness, and Mr. Butler read the remainder of the argument.

Mr. Stevens said he should discuss but a single article, the one that was finally adopted upon his earnest solicitation, and which, if proved, he considered as quite sufficient for the conviction of the distinguished respondent. He desired to discuss the charges in no mean spirit of vituperation, but argue them in a manner worthy of the high tribunal before which he appeared, and of the exalted position of the accused. The trial of the Chief Magistrate of the nation, which was intensely interesting to millions of men, could not be belitted and reduced to mockery; when Andrew Johnson took upon himself the dutles of office he swore to take care that the laws be faithfully executed. The duties of office he swore to take care that the laws be faithfully executed. The duties of of duty. His attempt to escape that duty will be misprison of perjury. Mr. Ste-vens said I accuse him in the name of the House of Representatives of having perpetrated that foul offense. Mr. perpetrated that foul offense. Mr. Stevens then reviewed the question of the Secretaryship of War, and charged that the President had plainly and wilfully violated a law which he had sworn the secretary for the property of the secretary secretary and the secretary s dent that the case did not come under the tenure-of-office law because Mr. Stanton was appointed by Mr. Lincoln, He claimed that by the Constitution the Vice President when called to the motive need instigate the acts for which the impeachment is brought. It was enough that they were collicial viola-tions of law. The President justified himself by asserting that all previous presidents had exercised the same right of removing officers, but there were now express laws against it, so insurance $20,000. About twenty men were engaged in throwing leather out of the third story, when a couple of barrels of fish oil in the lower story took fire and exploded, causing a panic among the men, and several leaped from the windows. Henry R. Kreiting and Lewis Kroece were seriously injured. Six others were badly injured, but will recover.

—The Tribune's special says that thirty-six counties of North Carolina that have been heard from give the Republicans 15,000 majority. The maljority in the First Congressional Dispersive of the constitutionality of the law. remove Satuton under the tenure of of-fice law; this was a direct contradic-tion of his own letter to the Secretary least 25,000 majority. The Legislature is largely Republican. of the Treasury. How necessary that a man should have a good conscience or a memory. The President denies that he attempted to prevent the execution of the tenure of office law, and yet in his correspondence with Gen. Grant he reproached the General by the assertion that he [Grant] knew his object was to prevent Edwin M. Stanton from forthwith resuming the inactions of his office. Notwithstanding the Senate might decide in his favor, a question of veracity grew out of this correspondence, the President asserting that he General had promised to aid him in defeating the execution of the laws by preventing the immediate resumptions of the functions of Secretary of War by Mr. Stanton and that the General violated his promise. This the General denies, though he agrees with the President that the President did induce him to make such a promise. did induce him to make such a promise and to enter into such arrangement. He maintained the President had been rity.

After the death of Mr. Lincoln instead of being content with the position the people had given him, he sought to become thereafter as the Chief Executive of the nation; this he knew could only be done by changing principles and creating a new party to sustain him. After some hesitation he resolved upon that course and perpetrated a betrayal of the party that had elected him and the principles he professed, baser than the betrayal of Judas Iscarlot, who betrayed only a single individual; Johnson sacrificed a whole nation, and the holiest of principles.

Mr. Williams then took the floor.—

congress or merely implied by the Constitution, and therefore not to be extended to apply to all cases. He then discussed the judicial authorities cited by the President's counsel, arguing that they afforded no countenance to his views, but settle the point that Congress may fix the tenures of office so as to prevent removals by the President, and that his power to remove, so far as it existed, was only implied from his power to appoint. Against the legislative construction which was addnoed in support of the Presideat's theory on this subject, he cited passages from Webster's and Calboun's speeches, and the writings of Kent and Story to show that the interpretations put on the Constitution by the Congress of 1789 was erroneous and worthy of reversal, and called attention to the fact that the laws referred to were passed by a very small majority in the House and Senate only by the vote of the Vice President, who had a direct interest in their passage. He denied that all wisdom had died with our fathers, and claimed that this Congress had as good a right to construst he Constitution as its predecessor. Maintaining the power of Congress to determine the tenure of office, he referred to numerous laws fixing the tenure of years.

At this point, four o'clock, on motion of Mr. Morrill, of Vt., who stated that Mr. Williams was unwell and would not be able to finish his speech to-day, the court adjourned, and the Senate, after receiving several executive communications, also adjourned soon afterwards.
